Between Turkey and Bulgaria Be- Comes Alarming.

Revolt in Monastir Checked by Slaughter of Chris- tians--Macedonians Lay in Immense Stores Of Dynamite--Riot at Beirut.

Washington, Sept. 8.—(Bulletin)—The following cablegram has been received at the State department from Minister Leishman at Constantinople, under today's date:

"Riot occurred at Beirut yesterday. Seven Christians killed and several wounded. Two houses of Christians pillaged by the soldiery. Panic general."

"An officer and a signal man from the Admiral's (Cotton's) ship are now in the consulate. An investigation of the condition in Beirut is being conducted by the flag lieutenant and other officers. The origin of the disturbance is not known. The sublime porte claims that Beirut is now quiet and that the government force there is sufficient to insure order. (Signed.)

"LEISHMAN."

Berlin, Sept. 8.—Reports from Constantinople say that the insurrection in the Province of Monastir has been effectually stamped out. The Bashi-Bazouks have been given free rein and as a result the Christian population has been almost exterminated.

Horrible outrages are reported daily from Macedonia, but the Turks claim that these have been committed only by Bulgarians. Turkey is making every endeavor to surround the insurgents, and compel their surrender, and it is probable that when the latter understand that further resistance is hopeless they will lay down their arms.

It is promised that the rank and file of the insurgents will be permitted to return to their homes and that only the officers and leaders will be held for trial by the Turks.

The outlook for war between Turkey and Bulgaria is becoming more alarming. The Turkish government is said to be pouring troops into Macedonia from Asiatic Turkey in order to be ready to overwhelm Bulgaria at the outset of hostilities. It is not thought that the war can be postponed longer than the end of the present month.

The Turks have burned several villages on the Grecian frontier and the Bashi-Bazouks killed many of the women and children, although they had sought the protection of the Turkish commander and had been promised safety.

The Macedonian Revolutionary committee has laid in immense quantities of dynamite with which they propose to inaugurate a reign of terror among the Turks. They have a large supply of arms and ammunition and the money for this purpose is said to have been obtained principally from the ransom paid for the release of Miss Ellen Stone, the American missionary.

The situation in Constantinople continues unchanged, the legations being guarded closely to prevent any murderous fanatic from gaining entrance. Minister Leishman has not yet asked for marines, but they will be rushed overland from Beirut as soon as request is received.

Fierce Brawl Between Christians and Muslims on Monday.

Constantinople, Sept. 8.—A regular dispatch from Beirut reports a fierce brawl between Muslims and Christians near the Greek church. It was provoked by a shot fired by a Muslim on a Christian employee of the American college who was wounded. The wall was on board the U. S. cruiser Brooklyn returning a visit paid him by Admiral Cotton. It is feared that there will be a renewal of the trouble.

A later dispatch says that the official version of the affair which was (Continued on page four)

Body of Young Woman Is Discovered in Oswego—Former Sweetheart Is Now Under Arrest.

Oswego, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Fully dressed and bearing the marks of violence the body of Miss Ina Bowley of Belhus, N. Y., was discovered in the Oswego river near here last night. It is the belief of Coroner Cusack that the death of the young woman was caused by wounds inflicted by some blunt instrument.

Miss Bowley was 19 years old and handsome. Frank Horton won her love and she became engaged to him. A week ago the engagement was broken by Horton.

Miss Bowley was last seen a week ago in the company of Horton. Today Sheriff Cook arrested Horton. He denied having had any quarrel with the young woman and declared that he had no knowledge of her death.

SAVED HUSBAND'S LIFE BUT LOST HER OWN.

Rushed Between Husband and His As- sailant Who Narrowly Escaped Lynching.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Rushing in front of her husband to protect him from an attack by an armed man, Mrs. Ida Reckstein, 33 years old, received a bullet in her right side last night and physicians at St. Elizabeth's hospital say she will die.

Rudolph Hoppe, who did the shooting was set upon by a crowd of union cornice workers who knocked him down and not until the police had drawn their revolvers and charged on the crowd did the union men release Hoppe. He was then unconscious but was taken to the East Chicago avenue station, where he recovered.

The shooting followed a quarrel between Hoppe and Reckstein at the rooms of the latter over rent matters. Hoppe fired twice at his antagonist without effect and as he fired the third time, Mrs. Reckstein stepped in front of her husband. Frightened by what he had done, Hoppe hurried into the street, where he was met by the cornice workers who had been celebrating Labor Day. They had heard of the shooting and called for vengeance.

Mrs. Reckstein, who had staggered into the street with the assistance of her husband was hurried to the hospital while her husband was taken to the police station to be questioned regarding the shooting.

INDICTMENTS

Returned Tuesday Afternoon in Post- office Cases by Grand Jury at Washington.

Washington, Sept. 8.—At 12:10 p. m. today the grand jury returned seven indictments in the post office cases. United States District Attorney Beach requested of Justice Gould, to whom the grand jury reported, that the indictments should be kept from the record temporarily. Justice Gould granted the request. When previous indictments had been reported they have been given immediately to the press, and this had caused some trouble to the government in serving warrants on the indicted parties. It is possible that names of those indicted, will not be made public until tomorrow.

DESTROYED $263,000 WORTH OF PROPERTY TUESDAY.

When Six Large Buildings Went Up in Flames—Cause of the Fire Is Not Yet Known.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 8.—Fire early this morning almost entirely destroyed the block bounded by Liberty avenue, Fifteenth street, Spring alley and Sixteenth street. There were six large buildings and three dwelling houses in the block. The property destroyed was owned by the Comstock Brass manufacturing company, warehouses of the Pittsburg Plate Glass company, American Electrical Switching company, Pittsburg Switch & Signal company, Theumler manufacturing company, and Allegheny Transfer company's stable and a storage yard.

The flames originated in the hay loft of the latter company but the cause is not yet determined. Sixty valuable draught horses were burned to death. A number of others were injured and will probably be killed. A rough estimate of losses amounts to $263,000, the greater part of which is covered by insurance.

Is on Trial the Second Time

This Time for the Murder of Jim Cockrill

CASE CALLED TUESDAY, BUT WAS POSTPONED.

SALVATIONISTS INVADE COUNTY.

Motion Made to Compel Juror to Show He Refused to Vote for the Death Penalty.

Cynthiana, Ky., Sept. 8.—The case of the commonwealth against Curtis Jett for the murder of Town Marshal Jim Cockrill, of Jackson, was called here today. The court room is crowded with witnesses for both the commonwealth and the defense have arrived. Attorneys Culton and Black are engaged at a special term of the Knox Circuit court, and Attorneys B. F. French, of Winchester, leading counsel for the defense, is ill at his home and will not be here. County Judge Hargis of Breathitt county, will not be at the trial for the first three days on account of the Democratic primary to be held at Jackson on Wednesday.

Judge Osborne ordered Sheriff Leach and three deputies at 9 o'clock to bring the defendant, Curtis Jett, to the court room. As soon as Jett appeared the court called his case and commonwealth attorney Byrd answered ready, but asked a continuance until Wednesday morning. Judge Blanton, local attorney for the defense filed a demurrer asking that the indictment be quashed. Attorney Byrd objected and asked that the case be tried at this term of court.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 8.—Clad in Khaki uniform and mounted on horseback, ten officers of the Salvation army, under command of Col. R. E. Holz, of Cleveland, O., will invade Breathitt, and adjoining counties in the mountainous part of Kentucky, next week, with the intention of working a religious awakening, which they hope may mollify the lawless spirit recently exhibited in that locality.

"The Mountaineer Cavalry brigade," as it is termed by the Salvationists, will leave this city next Monday and open the campaign in Jackson, the scene of the assassination of Attorney Marcum, on the evening of that day.

The personnel of the command will be composed of officers from different cities in the Ohio province, which includes Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and several southern states.

Cynthiana, Ky., Sept. 8.—Attorney Webster made a motion in court this morning that a rule be issued to compel Jasper King, the juror in the late Jett-Whitely trial to come into court and show why he refused to bring in a verdict of death, and why he had talked to the jury to prevent them from hanging the defendants. The court allowed the affidavit to be filed, to be returned next Friday. The feeling is still very bitter in Harrison county against King and it is believed he will be severely punished for his action in that case.

Attorney Webster believed he has a clear case of contempt of court against King and will press the charge vigorously.

Slept Soundly on the Ground in Camp With His Soldiers and Arose Early.

Halle, Germany, Sept. 8.—Emperor William bivouacked last night in a field near here, where the military maneuvers are being held. His physicians and the officers of the staff tried to dissuade him because of the dangerous drop of temperature, but the Kaiser replied: "I desire to share my soldiers' hardships." His majesty lay on a blanket with his mantle as a pillow. The effect of his stiff lay and photographs of him in this position found four o'clock this morning when he awoke, washed at a neighboring pump and then sat on an inverted barrel while a corporal stood him.

New York, Sept. 8.—In the Reformed Church, Flushing, the pastor, Rev. J. R. Swain, attacked Vice Consul Magelssen, who was shot at in Beirut. Mr. Swain was once a professor in the American college at Beirut. His wife was a missionary there and his father-in-law and a cousin are now teaching in Beirut college.

Mr. Swain said that Magelssen did not command or desire the respect of Americans. "If an American at Beirut seeks redress he does not go to Magelssen or to the American Consul, but to the British Consul. This speaks for itself," said Mr. Swain.

DECIDES LIUET. HAMILTON IS GUILTY

Of Conduct Unbecoming an Officer, and Sentences Him to Dishonorable Discharge.

New York, Sept. 8.—Accused of having been guilty of conduct "unbecoming an officer and a gentleman," in having insulted the wife of a fellow officer, Lieut. Louis McLane Hamilton, son of Dr. Allen McLane Hamilton, of this city, has been tried by court martial in the Philippines, found guilty and sentenced to dishonored dismissal from the army of the United States.

The verdict may be reversed by Judge Advocate General Davis, at Washington, to whom the papers in the case have been forwarded. It is also possible that President Roosevelt may take a personal part in the investigation before the order of dismissal is confirmed.

Lieut. Hamilton is 27 years of age. It is said that the charges against him were based on a remark he is reported to have made while intoxicated, and in the presence of an officers' wife. Lieut. Hamilton's record since he entered the army has been noteworthy. After serving with the Sixth United States Volunteers during the Spanish war, when he failed to see active service, he received an appointment as second lieutenant in the Fourteenth infantry, U. S. A., on October 5, 1899. He was sent at once to the Philippines and accompanied his regiment in the campaign in China. After a trip home to recover from the wounds he received at Yang Tsun, he returned to the Philippines and has for several months been stationed on the island of Samar.

Threatened With Assassination at Syracuse, N. Y.

Where He Attended Labor Day and Opened the New York State Fair--The Mischance Arrested And Closely Guarded in Jail.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Locked securely in a cell at the Syracuse police station, and carefully watched by a strong guard, John Miller awaits an investigation by the local authorities, and the Federal sleuths as to the report that he threatened to kill President Roosevelt, who for 12 hours ending at 9:30 o'clock last night, was the guest of Syracuse.

According to two affidavits in the possession of Chief of Police Charles C. Wright, Miller made the statement several days ago that he would kill the President when he visited this city to open the New York State Fair and review the parade of the laboring men and the National Letter Carriers' Association. The arrest of Miller was made by local detectives at 4 o'clock, as he was entering his residence at Elmwood, a suburb of Syracuse.

The capture of Miller was the result of two days' search by some of the best detectives in the country. For a week preceding the visit of President Roosevelt secret service men and city detectives have been on the lookout and have been rounding up suspicious characters. Saturday last word came to the police headquarters that Miller had made the threat against the life of the President. The informant was Mrs. Mary Smith, of No. 123 Randall street, a neighbor of the prisoner. In her affidavit Mrs. Smith said that at 4 o'clock Saturday she heard Miller say: "I am a bad man." Pointing to a picture of the President he further remarked: "I am the man that is going to shoot that man Monday; you wait and see."

Another affidavit is made by Barney Smith, aged 15, the son of Mrs. Smith. He says that Saturday night he met Miller, who showed him a picture of the President, and said:

"I am going to kill him Monday—Monday is the day for me."

Miller is 35 years old, a German, and a molder by trade. He came from Germany in 1891. He has been on a lot of work for some time, but has never been known to have shown any anarchistic characteristics, nor signs of insanity.

The police and the secret service men are making an investigation of the man's past life.

The President spent a busy day in Syracuse, and from his arrival yesterday forenoon until his departure last night received a continuous ovation from many thousand New Yorkers.

Before noon President Roosevelt had reviewed a large Labor Day parade in Hanover square. Then he went to the State Fair grounds and spoke before 50,000 people on the relations of capital and labor to the state. He afterward attended a luncheon at the clubhouse on the fair grounds, and ate with many state officers. To complete the afternoon the President reviewed a parade of the National Letter Carriers' Association and the fraternal orders of Syracuse. In the evening he was the guest of former United States Senator Hiscock at a dinner, which was attended by 80 persons.

RETURNS TO OYSTER BAY.

Oyster Bay, Sept. 8.—The President's train from Syracuse arrived in Hoboken at 7:10. The party remained in Hoboken for half an hour to eat breakfast and then boarded the Delaware and Lackawanna ferry boat. The party was given a ride around the battery and up the East river to Long Island city, where a special train was waiting for the chief executive. Oyster Bay was reached at 10 a. m.

SERIOUS COMPLICATIONS

May Arise Between United States and Colombia Over the Loss of Cable Dispatches to the American Consul at Bogota.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Dr. Thomas Herran, the Colombian charge d'affaires in this city, has been called upon by Secretary of State Hay for reasons why United States Minister Beaupre at Bogota did not receive any of the cable dispatches sent him by the state department on July 25 and Aug. 15, at the time when the Colombian senate was discussing the canal treaty.

An investigation disclosed that all these dispatches reached the cable terminus at Buena Ventura, Colombia, whence they have to be transmitted to Bogota, overland, a distance of about 100 miles by the Colombian government.

As soon as this information was received by the state department a test cablegram prepared in cipher giving Minister Beaupre the numbers of the dispatches sent him and requesting him to reply in cipher stating the numbers of those he had received and the dates when they were received. This dispatch went through without delay.

Beaupre replied that he had not received any of the messages sent between July 25 and August 15. All of these had reached Buena Ventura and had been turned over to the Colombian authorities to transmit to Bogota. The Sunday evening late, Secretary Hay wrote Dr. Herran calling his attention to the non-delivery of the dispatches, and asking that an explanation be given.

A private in the German navy is reported to have committed suicide "by the common device of exploding a blank cartridge in a rifle the barrel of which was filled with water." The suicide killed himself by this "common device" because of the abuse he had had to the non-delivery of the dispatches suffered at the hands of a non-commissioned officer.

We are sure that our view of the cigar business is unusual. Most druggists and all cigar dealers sell cigars to make money. We sell them to make friends—and money too in the long run. They came over to the mainland and when Mr. Wells started for the hotel, he was struck in the mouth with some weapon, and rendered unconscious for an hour. The assailants are unknown, but Mr. Wells had entirely recovered today from his experience.

MURDER

OF AGATHA REICHLIN LAST MAY IS RECALLED

By Return of Her Uncle Cismir Reichlin With Proofs to Refute Certain Charges.

New York, Sept. 2.—Armed with proofs with which he intends to silence the tongue of scandal, Rev. Reichlin, uncle of Agatha Reichlin, who was murdered on April 30, in Lorain, Ohio, is on his way to that city there he will refute in public the charge made by some of the parishioners of his nephew, Rev. Charles Reichlin, that Agatha was not his sister.

Father Casmir Reichlin is rector of St. Stephens church in Cleveland. He attended the funeral of his niece on May 5, and has been interested since in trying to discover the murderer. Returning from Switzerland, where he went at the earnest solicitation of his niece, he went to obtain the certificates of Agatha's birth, the Cleveland priest arrived in this city today on the Holland-American liner Staatsendam, and took a train for Ohio, where he will begin a crusade against those who defamed his nephew's honor.

"The dastardly murder of my niece was bad enough," said he today, "but these charges made against my nephew by his own parishioners are even worse. It seems as if the general public is always anxious to picture a priest as an offender against the laws of morality and decency. When I learned of the unjustified and malicious things that were said, and when my nephew told me, and asked, with tears in his eyes, to prove his innocence, I immediately left for Switzerland, the native land of all the Reichlins.

"Arriving there two months ago, I got the necessary papers from the Mayor Steinerberg, in the canton of Schwyz, where Agatha was born and had them verified and approved by the governor of the province, and by the American consul in Lucerne, which is only an hour's ride on the railroad from the little Swiss town.

Agatha's father and mother are still alive; their names are Zeno Reichlin and Catherine Abegg Reichlin. They are respected members of the little community in which they dwell, and the news of the charges which the members of St. Joseph's church, in Lorain, had started against their sons, caused them no little suffering."

Do you go to bed tired; get up tired; feel tired throughout the day? It's the waste of bodily tissue that is exceeding the supply. Hagee's Cordial not only stops the waste, but repairs the damage and supplies new, healthy, vigorous tissue. Pleasant to take.

WHY THEY WERE MARRIED.

After His Soul Stirring Appeal She Could Not Refuse Him.

"Be mine!"

It was with a voice fraught with emotion that Algernon Fitz-Hufferty spoke these two words. He realized that his whole future life hung upon the answer.

Henrietta de Toole was a beautiful girl with bright auburn hair, large, lustrous blue eyes and charming, gold filled teeth. She came of a proud old French family and well knew that she must not be won too easily. Still she wished and intended to be won. They both wished to be one.

She looked at her lover passionately, leaned over him and was about to give him a shy, maidenly kiss when the house was violently shaken.

"Algernon! An earthquake!" she shrieked in terror.

"Hush, my darling," he said, soothingly. "It is only I."

She looked at him reproachfully a moment, then patted him playfully on the cheek.

"That is the third time tonight, Algernon," she said. "You must not move your feet again."

"But, my own," he exclaimed with passionate fervor, "answer me. Will you be mine?"

"This is so sudden," she murmured. (She had been expecting it for six months.) "You must give me time."

"Not a day; not an hour," he cried. "Answer me. I will not—I cannot wait."

"Why so importunate?" she asked.

"I must be married at once—today," he said. "Listen! I have over $300!"

"So much?" she asked.

"My exemptions are a hundred," he continued, every word brimming with love. "I have been sued. Hush! Not a word! Do not breathe. I will tell you the secret of my passionate, devoted love. A married man's exemptions are $400. Be mine."

She threw herself into his arms.

"Algernon, I am yours. I now know that you love me truly."—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Splendid Selection.
In the selection of the Democratic State Executive Committee Licking county has been recognized and honored by the appointment of Mr. E. W. Crayton, of this city. Mr. Crayton's selection as a member of the committee was entirely without his solicitation, but the wisdom of the choice will be readily recognized and approved by every one who knows his political ability and sagacity. No choice could have been more popular with the Licking Democracy. Mr. Crayton is a busy man, engrossed as he is in Newark's business enterprises, but what time he can give to State politics will be found to be invaluable by his associates on the State Committee.

"Mr. Bryan suggests that the haste with which the administration does not clean out the postoffice department may be an indication that there are others who need the benefits accruing from the operation of the statute of limitations."

The first campaign lie has been nailed. It was a lie manufactured by Republicans, and the best proof of the assertion that they were the authors of the falsehood is found in the Sandusky Register, a Republican paper, with an honest editor. The Register says: "The first lie of the campaign in Ohio originated in Cleveland and was told by some Republican liar for the purpose of injuring the Democratic cause. The lie was in a telegram sent out from Cleveland that Bryan had deserted Johnson and intended to rebuke him for favoring the nomination of Mr. Clarke for senator by refusing to keep his engagements in the State of Ohio. The very next day Mr. Bryan denied the truth of the statement, but it had got twenty-four hours the start and went all over the state."

MONNETT'S NOMINATION.
(Steubenville Gazette.)
The nomination of Frank S. Monnett for attorney general means that with the success of the Democratic ticket something will be doing in the way of fighting the trusts in Ohio. Mr. Monnett made a splendid record as a trust fighter when attorney general of Ohio a number of years ago, and for his honesty, earnestness and integrity was turned down for renomination by the Republicans. Finding his old party, or rather its leaders and

COMMITTEES

And Plans of the Coming Democratic Campaign.

New Ideas for the Work of Effecting Complete Organization of Party in the Counties--Licking County Recognized in the Membership Of the State Committee.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 8.—At a conference of Mayor Johnson, Charles P. Salen and Chairman W. L. Finley, of the Democratic State Central Committee, held Saturday, the membership of the committees that will have charge of the state campaign was determined on. As was expected, Salen is to be Chairman of the State Executive Committee. J. P. Madigan is Chairman ex-officio of the Finance Committee and Carl Nau of the Information and Literary Committee. The names of the committeemen follow:
State Executive Committee—Charles P. Salen, Cleveland, Chairman; Charles Richardson, Marietta, Secretary; J. P. Madigan, Cleveland, Treasurer; Harvey C. Garber, Greenville; W. F. Mason, Hamilton; M. M. Padgett, Warren; W. H. Francis, Martin's Ferry; E. W. Crayton, Newark; M. R. Denver, Wilmington; Charles J. McGlinchey, New Philadelphia; Adam Bridge, Franklin; A. G. Turnipseed, Cincinnati; S. R. Jones, Bowling Green; Emory Latanner, Van Wert; W. L. Finley, Kenlan, ex-officio.
Finance Committee—J. P. Madigan, Cleveland, Chairman, ex-officio; Elliott H. Pendleton, Cincinnati; G. M. Saltzgaber, Van Wert; M. K. Gantz, Troy; W. S. Thomas, Springfield; Edward W. Hanley, Dayton; Anthony Howells, Massillon; Robert Wright, Cleveland.
Information and Literary Bureau—Carl Nau, Cleveland, Chairman; Daniel Kiefer, Cincinnati; Peter Witt, Cleveland; Ellis O. Jones, Columbus; Frank Gentsch, Cleveland.

In addition to these committees there will be a general State Committee, consisting of one member for each county, making 88 in all, for the purpose of taking care of the campaign in the various counties. Each member of the committee will remain in his county and conduct the work there under the direction of the Executive Committee, making local arrangements for political meetings. The dates and places of the meeting will be determined by the State Committee, and then the meetings will be turned over to the county members.
This method of covering the work in the counties, and also the plan of having a Committee on Information and Literature, are original, and are the product of Salen's ingenuity. The State Committee hopes for great things from them.
The three committees will meet in Columbus next Friday to discuss plans. Some time during the week Secretary Charles Richardson will engage headquarters in Columbus. Chairman Salen said today that the headquarters would not be removed to Cleveland, although its machinery irrevocably committed to monopoly's cause, he found a welcome among the Jeffersonian Democrats, of whom William J. Bryan is the recognized national leader, and who are ably represented in Ohio by such men as Tom L. Johnson and John H. Clarke. It was fitting as well as graceful to nominate Mr. Monnett to again take up the work that his Republican successor as attorney general let go by default as soon as he assumed the place. Such nominations strengthen the Democratic party, for it is a notice to the world that it is in earnest in what it declares and a token to other men who find themselves out of touch with the Republican party, that they will be welcomed to a better home.

LATEST ANTI-JOHNSON SCHEME.
(Steubenville Gazette.)
Whenever Mayor Johnson starts out to do anything of great importance in the interest of the public welfare, Republican politicians resort to the super-servicable courts to block his progress. The latest case is an injunction to stop a vote in Cleveland to authorize a municipal electric light plant, and incidentally to knock out the board of elections of that city. Of what use is legislation if political judges can undo the laws passed in behalf of the people?

TOM GOES MORCHING ON.
(Tiffin Advertiser.)
The postoffice organs all agree that the Democrats should have nominated a stronger candidate than Tom L. Johnson. Well, well, it is difficult to please these organs. But the Democratic people wanted Tom, by a large majority, and we had no Master Hanna to change the result, and so our Republican contemporaries will have to content themselves with their usual argument of abuse, while Tom goes marching through Ohio advocating Home Rule, Equal Taxation and no alliance with corporations and trusts.

through there had been some talk of doing so.
The following itinerary is announced for the tent campaign during the week:
Akron, Wednesday night; Ravenna, Thursday; Wadsworth, Friday; Youngstown, Saturday.
Mayor Johnson and John H. Clarke will speak at these meetings.

BOTH PARTIES
Will Have Extensive Bureaus to Distribute Campaign Documents.
Cleveland, O., Sept. 8.—Extensive arrangements that are being made for work by the literary bureaus of the dominant political parties indicate that there will be more printed matter bearing upon the campaign used this fall than ever before in the history of the state, except perhaps some presidential year.
The Republican managers have had their literary bureau at work for weeks and they are preparing to scatter literature broadcast over the state.
In addition to the state literary bureau it is the plan of the Republicans to establish bureaus in several of the so-called close counties.
The work that is going on among the Democrats also indicates that they will not take a back seat as far as the distributing of campaign documents is concerned. It is probable that the plan of last fall will be followed again, but upon a more extensive scale. Tens of thousands of Democratic pamphlets will be distributed in connection with the tent meetings and in other ways.
Prof. Bemis will collect data for one of the leading pamphlets to be scattered over the state in the hope of influencing votes for the Democratic cause. The pamphlet will deal with the relation of the assessment of railways to their true value, as shown in the stock market. It will be an analysis of the figures which will form the basis of Mr. Johnson's campaign for equitable taxation.

It is the plan to have this pamphlet contain nothing but a straightforward presentation of statements in connection with railway taxation without the extra campaign frills that marked the leading pamphlet distributed by Mr. Johnson last year. It will be the aim to present the situation in nearly every county in the state, so as to give the material as local a flavor as possible.
The Democratic bureau of publicity will also make a special study of conditions in the different counties, and the expectation is to have things in readiness for appeals for help along literary lines from every county in the state.

WINDER
WON THE LEECH TROPHY CUP AT SEA GIRT.
Ohio Guardsmen are Doing Great Work at the National Shoot Now in Progress.
Rifle Ground, Sea Girt, N. J., Sept. 8.—Ohio again came to the front Monday and captured another of the much-sought trophies, the Leech cup.
Corporal C. B. Winder of company G, Sixth Infantry, Ohio National Guard, of Bloomdale, O., won the cup with a score of 94 out of a possible 105 points. Sergeant Keoh had the same score, but lost out by having a less score than Winder at 900 yard range.
The excitement at the close of the contest was intense, and the Ohio team is receiving congratulations on all sides, as the two cups won by Ohio are considered the most prized of any of the individual match trophies.
The national match opens today and the Ohio team is in fine form for it. In the company team match of the competitors that finished Monday company C. Fourth New Jersey, is in the lead with a total of 312 out of a possible 420.
The United States Marine corps, second team, has a total of 302; company I, First District of Columbia, 307; company G, Sixth Ohio, 303; battery B, Massachusetts, 294; company D, Second Connecticut, 288; company I, Third Pennsylvania, 284; company A, First Pennsylvania, 265; and company K, First Pennsylvania, 197.
Mt. Pelée, which blew off 180 feet of its crown when it overwhelmed the city of St. Pierre, has since been extruding from its crater at the rate of three to five feet per day, a shaft of lava 300 feet in diameter, which now protrudes 600 feet above its summit.

MONUMENT TO CUBAN PATRIOTS

BRONZE TABLET COMMEMORATING THE EXECUTION OF MEN WHO AIDED THE AMERICANS AT SANTIAGO TO BE UNVEILED.

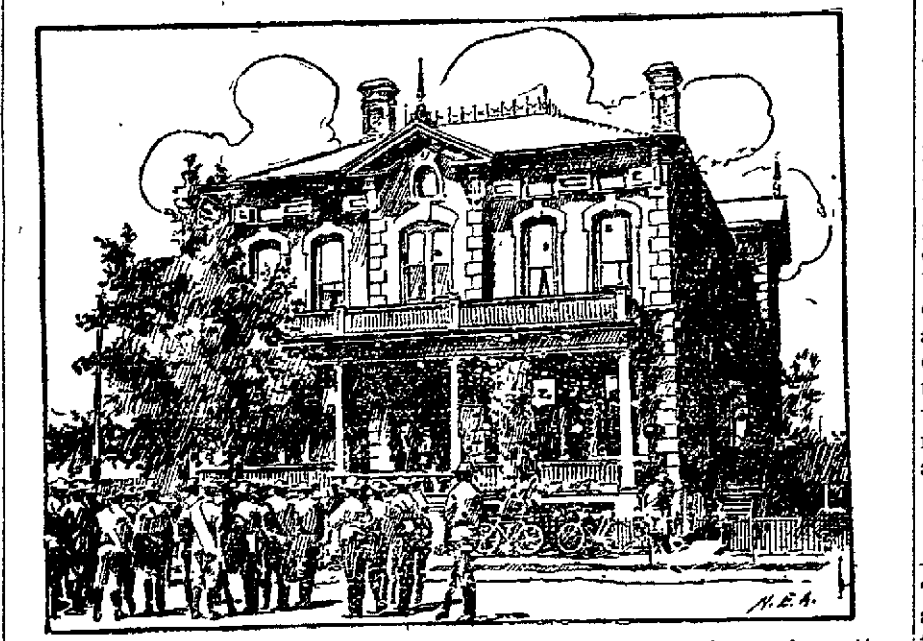

Paris, Sept. 8.—The monument to the memory of the Cuban patriots shot by the Spaniards outside the walls of Santiago in Cuba, which is to be unveiled this month by the Cuban authorities, in the presence of representatives of the United States government, has just been completed and shipped from France to Cuba. It is the work of the sculptor Antonin Mercier, and is in the form of a bronze tablet with life-size figures, to be placed on the wall against which the Cubans fell in the Fossa de los Laureos.
The scene represents the incident of the shooting, with an allegorical figure of Patriotism hovering above. A number of young Cubans, mainly artists and students, were, it will be remembered, arrested by the Spaniards in Santiago on the charge of treachery, assisting the United States squadron, which bottled Admiral Cervera in the bay.
Without proper trial, the Cubans were condemned to be shot, and were executed at daybreak next morning. Recently a subscription of $6000 was taken up in Santiago and in Havana, Toledo, the Cuban minister to France, and the amount sent to Dr. Sanchez, who entrusted the making of the monument to Mercier.

FOURTEEN OF THE DANVILLE MOB ANSWER FOR THE ACTION OF THE MOB IN JULY.

Danville, Ill., Sept. 8.—The trial of the crowd of loafers and boys who gathered on July 24 killed and burned a negro charged with assaulting a white woman. A negro and a white man engaged in an altercation; Sheriff Whitlock fired on the rioters, and the negro shot his antagonist dead. The police managed to place the colored man in a station house, but later cowardly allowed the mob to take him out, when he was beaten to death and the body burned.
When the mob stormed the jail to take out the other negro, Sheriff Whitlock and his deputies fired and the rioters ran.
The riot of July 25 was started by a telegraphed to the Turkish ambassador for communication to the Powers states that the Christians were the assailants and that they fired four shots at the Mussulmans. The Mussulmans came to the assistance of their compatriots and the Christians were also reinforced compelling the troops finally to intervene. One soldier was killed in the fight and three were wounded. One Christian was killed and one wounded. These figures are evidently incorrect. It is certain that the rioters must have lost more heavily.

The British consul called on the Vali and threatened to ask Admiral Cotton to land marines.
In official circles it is said that the disturbances were due to the arrival at Beirut of the American squadron, the Christians wishing to force the landing of marines.

SERVIA
Likely to be Drawn into the War With Turkey.
Sofia, Sept. 8.—Despite the inclinations of Prince Ferdinand and his cabinet, it now appears that nothing short of intervention by the powers will prevent a general war between Bulgaria and Turkey before October.
It is also possible that Serbia will be drawn into the fight. The insurgents admit that the Turks have temporarily checked the rising in the immediate vicinity of Monastir, but the shocking excesses of the Bashibazouks have are committed by Turkish troops. A hand headed by Popoffe, a Macedonian chief, is reported to have surrendered to seven Turkish battalions near Kastoria, after severe fighting. The soldiers after the surrender fell on the defenseless insurgents, killed 360 and drove 100 who were severely wounded away from town, inflicting inhuman tortures on them. The dispatch adds that at Nikolas a strong band was cut up by the Turks and 300 killed.

INTO THE LAKE
The Bulgarians Threw Themselves to Escape from the Turks.
Constantinople, Sept. 8.—Official dispatches from Monastir, dated August 31, September 1, 2 and 3, furnish details of numerous successes of the imperial troops in that district. A body of Bulgarians entrenched in the hills between Lake Rodenik and the village of Velenje was attacked by the troops and lost 35 men killed. The remainder of the band, seeking to escape pursuit, threw themselves into the lake and were drowned. At the village of Resna 22 insurgents were killed, and around Florina 40 others perished.

MOBILIZES BIG ARMY.
Salonica, European Turkey, Sept. 8.—The latest orders received from the Turkish government are regarded here as a sure indication that the Porte entertains serious apprehensions of war. Sixteen battalions of Mustahfiz, or second reserves, have been called to arms in the Salonica, Uskub and Monastir districts, and the artillery and cavalry reserves of the Adrianople and Smyrna divisions have also been mobilized.

ADMIRAL COTTON FINDS
That Uncle Sam Was Again Deceived by the Turkish Foreign Office.
Washington, Sept. 8.—A cablegram received by the Navy department from Rear Admiral Cotton, in command of the European squadron at Beirut, shows:

1. That the Turkish Foreign office grossly deceived the State department and Minister Leishman, when it asserted that the attack on Vice Consul Magelsen was a bridal party joke.
  2. That there was need of the presence of American ships at Beirut.
  3. That the arrival produced a universal relief on the part of Christians, and that in all probability American vessels will be kept in the Eastern Mediterranean until the whole dangerous Turkish situation no longer exists.
- The conviction of the Turkish Foreign office of making false statement was the basis of the decisive action taken by the State department in 1895, and the State department at that time said plainly that the official utterances of Turkey were irreconcilable with facts obtained from other resources.
- Rear Admiral Cotton states explicitly that the Turkish officials at Beirut have arrested four persons who were suspected of having attacked Magelsen. This sustains Mr. Leishman and discredits the Turkish Foreign office's assurances.
- The Navy department was informed of the arrival of the Machias at Port Said yesterday. Her orders when she left Genoa were to proceed to Port Said, coal and await further orders.

It Was the Last Time Newark Will Go From Home on That Day. Large Crowd Present.

Newark has joined in the last celebration of Labor Day, in any other city, and hereafter the union men of Newark will celebrate the holiday at home. This was decided upon before going to Mt. Vernon, and the decision was announced at a meeting of delegates from Mansfield, Mt. Vernon and Newark.

Three special trains over the B. & O. were run to Mt. Vernon besides the two regular trains, and a large crowd went to the Knox county capital to help make the day the biggest ever known there. About 400 Newark men were in the parade, and were headed by the Buckeye Band, by all conceded to be the best in the line of marchers.

The Mt. Vernon delegations followed those from Mansfield and Newark, and nearly all were uniformed, presenting a fine appearance. During the day about 4000 people visited Hlawa Park and witnessed the program of sporting events which resulted as follows:
3-minute trot—1, Edinburg (George Loar), prize $15; 2, Mountain Boy, Jr., (Thomas Rockwell), $10.

A very handsome and complete surprise was perpetrated on Mr. Will D. Harris the popular and efficient manager of Idlewild Park, at the entertainment on Saturday evening. Just before the curtain was rung up the employees of the park gathered in a body and headed by Mr. J. M. Farmer, traveling soliciting agent of the park, made a call on Mr. Harris at his office. Here Mr. Farmer presented the surprised manager with a beautiful gold watch, saying as he did so, "We hand you your time," and then concluded with a very neat address, in which he thanked Mr. Harris on behalf of the employees for his uniform courtesy and kindness to them and begged him to accept the watch as a slight token of their sincere respect and regard for him.

Mr. Harris was deeply overcome, but managed to rally from his surprise and responded very happily. It goes without the saying that Mr. Harris has made a very successful and capable manager, and has given perfect satisfaction to the managers and employees of the Park, and to the general public.

A GREAT LABOR STRIKE.

Millions of Workers Out
One of the greatest labor strikes you can possibly imagine is that which takes place in your body when you eat improper food. Your body is a workshop and in it are millions and millions of workers—tissue builders. In the stomach alone there are more than five million of these workers, whose business it is to devise the means to build the body. If the food you eat is of a poor quality these five million toilers—these five millions of little microscopic people makers—strike, and millions and millions of other tissue builders in other parts of the body also strike through sympathy. They may strike for but a short time, but it is long enough to throw a lot of the delicate and intricate machinery in that wonderful workshop of yours out of repair and cause all manner of trouble.
The way to avoid labor strikes in the body is to supply that vast horde of artisans which build it with proper food material, and for this purpose there is nothing so good as Shredded Whole Wheat Flour, the only naturally porous food made from wheat. It is light, crisp, whole-some, and can be digested with ease. Shredded Wheat makes rich, red blood—blood that makes strong men, women, and children.
I have used Shredded Wheat Flour in my diet and I feel the result highly gratifying. It is a healthy, nourishing food, and it is a great help to the system. I have used it in my diet for some time, and I feel the result highly gratifying. I have used it in my diet for some time, and I feel the result highly gratifying. ## DOUGLAS

The day I went to the country I found Marcella much depressed. I was told that Peter Douglas had gone the day before. She said nothing to me about Douglas, and I supposed she was not aware that I knew of his having been there. At any rate, she gave herself away by asking me to play accompaniments for her and insisted on singing.

Oh, won't you come back to me, Douglas, Douglas, tender and true?

I did not mind it at first, but when I found that she could never go to the piano without wanting to sing the Douglas song I tired of it. Finally, one misty evening when she appeared more than usually depressed after the invitation to Douglas to come back to her, she—well, she wept; wept with me, an able bodied, fairly attractive man present to entertain, amuse, interest her. I wished that Douglas would come back and remain long enough in the grounds for me to go out and punch his head.

I finally intimated that this Douglas business was growing tiresome, thinking she would mend her ways. What was my surprise when she sorrowed more for Douglas than ever. Besides, she seemed hurt, if not offended, that I should take so matter of fact a view of what she called "tender associations," and refused to allow me to play the accompaniment again, playing it herself and stumbling at every note.

Something must be done. Two weeks once a year are too short to be spoiled by such nonsense, and I resolved on a stroke. One evening, after she had wailed the usual plaint to Douglas, I went to the piano, and after a few melancholy chords sang:

O Mary, dear, departed shade,
Where is thy place of blissful rest?
See'st thou thy lover lowly laid?
Hear'st thou the groans that reach his breast?

I arose from the piano and went and sat in a dark corner for awhile, then rejoined Marcella.

"Don't you think," I said, sighing, "that anniversaries are very sad?"

"Very," she replied, not sympathetically, I thought.

"Nothing more so," I sighed again.

"I supposed you to be a bachelor. It appears that you are a widower."

"How did you find that out?"

"By your singing Burns' beautiful lament to his wife so feelingly."

"Am I to consider you a widow because you are pining for Douglas?"

She got up and went into the house. The next day was Saturday, and the usual overflow from the city was expected. Marcella looked troubled.

"What's the matter?" I asked.

"Douglas moved farther away?"

She bit her lip. I didn't know then why, but I found out before long. Without any reply she went into the house.

In the afternoon when the express came in the crowd came in with it, and with the crowd who should come but Douglas.

Well, upon my word, and this is "Douglas, tender and true"—a pudgy, fat, knockkneed little man who stutted.

I would have supposed that Marcella would have met him. Not so. She did not appear on the piazza, and at dinner time had a headache. The next morning I saw her trying to steal through the hall to get away to the woods, but Douglas was watching for her, and I saw him approach with the air of an old friend, if nothing more. Marcella, who saw that I was a witness to the meeting, blushed violently, made a few incoherent replies to his tender remarks and a dash for cover. Douglas looked puzzled.

There was little seen of Marcella the Monday after Douglas had departed on the early morning train. The same evening she sat in an obscure corner of the parlor with a novel. I went to the piano and sang—

Won't you come back to me, Douglas, Douglas, tender and true?

I sang the whole song over twice, then walked out on to the piazza. It wasn't long before I heard a few somber chords, followed by—

O Mary, dear, departed shade,
Where is thy place of blissful rest?

I couldn't understand what had led the girl to play such a game. I went to a good friend of mine, a married woman of mature years and with a knowledge of the world, told her of the episode and asked her opinion.

"She undertook to get you," was the reply.

"How?"

"By playing the man Douglas off on you."

"Do you think that a high grade way of getting a husband?"

"You men can't be reached by any high grade means. Women have to give you what you are fitted for."

"Do you mean to say that I could be won by any such ignoble means?"

"Of course you can and are. You're in love with Marcella—so plainly in love that everybody in the house has noticed it."

I went out and joined Marcella.

"Douglas coming back soon?" I asked.

"He is coming back with Mary."

"Oh, perhaps it will be as well in order to avoid embarrassments that before they come we should have an understanding. It will save disappointment, remark and all unpleasantness. Will you take a stroll?"

A few days later when I announced to my mentor that Marcella and I were engaged she replied:

"She played that very well. Without the Douglas incentive it never could have been done in two weeks, possibly not in months."

The most absurd part of it all is that I rejoice in having been caught even in so contemptible a trap.

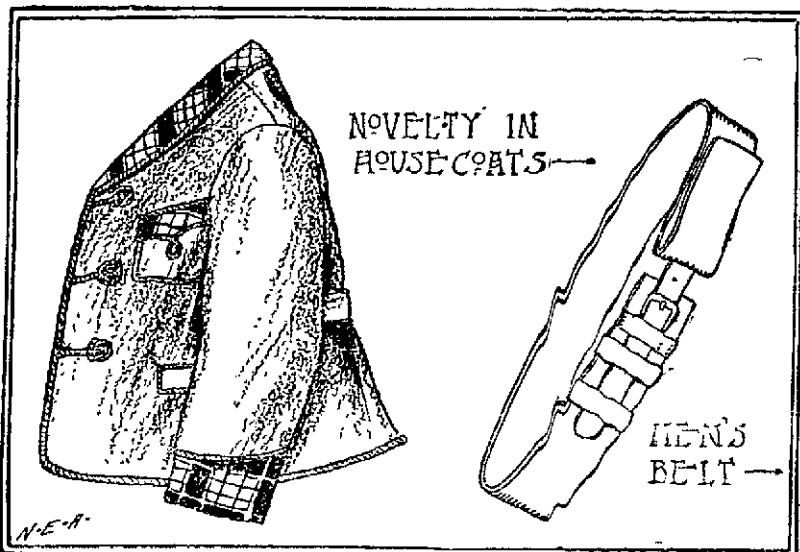

F. A. MITCHEL.

NEW DANCING GOWN

Here is a new gown from Paris for the debutantes. It is a pale pink dancing frock with the skirt cut just to clear the floor, the fullness being adjusted in deep plaits at the waistline, the straight, ungored breadth falling in simple folds to the feet. The upper portion of the corsage is of pink chiffon, lightly spangled in silver and edged with a fringe, which also appears in conventional pattern on the simple skirt. The deep skirt has a flounce interlining, which gives a graceful curve at the foot.

LATE FANCIES FOR MEN.

New York, Sept. 8.—There has just been introduced, at the smart shops, a novelty aimed at fastidious men who do not like the fastenings of their girdles to show. It is a belt with an invisible buckle. The buckle is covered by a piece of leather as broad as the belt, the ends passing into the loops.

Serviceable and attractive as house coats are, they have been objected to on the ground that they all seem to be of the same size. This objection is removed by providing the garment with a cloth strap, which buttons at the back and enables one to make the coat as tight or as loose as desired.

Given by a Woman.

On Wednesday night of last week the room of Mr. Amos Shaw, the well known East End grocer, corner of East Main and Buena Vista streets, was entered, and a small safe, weighing about sixty pounds in which Mr. Shaw kept his valuables, was carried away. It was reported that Mr. Shaw was in the habit of keeping considerable money in this safe, and it is the supposition that it was the money the thieves were after. The matter was kept quiet by the police, and on Sunday the safe was recovered by Officers Zergiebel and Sutton, through information given out by Mrs. Eva Shulte, who claimed to know where the box was hidden. Mrs. Shulte told Chas. Kennedy where the box could be found, and Kennedy in turn, notified the officers. The Shulte woman was arrested on suspicion and a search of the premises resulted in the box being found in the vault. The box had been broken open, but the checks and all the papers were found intact. It is thought that the Shulte woman knows who the thieves were, and it is likely that several other arrests will be made.

Peter Kelley, arrested for being drunk and disorderly, was given two days.

H. S. Moreland was arrested on the Public Square on Sunday night on the charge of being drunk and with having enticed a young fifteen year old girl named Bertha Crawford to drink intoxicating liquors. When arrested the child was stupefied and was unconscious of her condition. Moreland was fined $1 and the case was given to the judge.

RECONVERTED

(Original.)
Anthony Olcott was romantic. He fell in love with Marguerite Searle, and when her mother would not consent to the marriage he felt that the bottom had fallen out of the universe. Marguerite would not marry him without that consent, and as there was no hope and he felt he could not live near her and not possess her he went to a point as far distant as he could well get within the limits of the United States. He settled in Seattle.

He was an attractive fellow, and there were attractive girls in the far west, but Olcott considered his heart broken and would have none of them. When told that some day he would forget all about his youthful love and marry any one but Marguerite Searle. He was certainly a faithful lover, for he cherished her image in his heart, and though he and she grew out of their youth that image remained the same. Marguerite married to suit her mother about a year after Olcott's departure, but Olcott did not hear of it till long after, and then only that she was married. When, where and to whom he did not learn.

Then Olcott's uncle died and left him a fortune on condition that he should take the uncle's name. Howe. Olcott accepted the terms and the fortune and went east to manage his estate.

He was now forty instead of twenty and began to feel the necessity of a companion. He was expected by the terms of the will to open the manor house, and would need some one to take care of it and reside over it. The romance in him had died out, at least he said so, and he made up his mind to marry on common sense principles. Some of his friends advised him to choose a woman much younger than himself, since the wife should be younger than the husband, and he would find a girl of twenty much more tractable than a woman of forty. But Olcott, or rather, Howe, which was now his name—demurred, declaring that he would marry one near his own age.

Among those to whom he was introduced after his return to the east was a Mrs. Harding, a widow. There was something about her that reminded him of his old love. Perhaps this influenced him, though he did not acknowledge it to himself. At any rate he made up his mind the first time he saw her that she was the woman he wanted. He was hurried into a somewhat precipitate proposal from the fact that she was preparing for a two years' absence in Europe. Howe determined to stop this if possible and the only way he knew to go about it was to offer her the position he had in mind.

"I know," he said to her, "that we have both passed that romantic period where we think we can love but once. I confess that my heart was given to another when I was but half my present age, and I have been true in a romantic point of view to the girl I loved, and shall always be true true. But the affection of more mature years is still mine to give, and I am told by married people that the love of romance in time hardens into a family love that, if less violent, is far deeper and more enduring. That love I offer you."

"I, too," said the widow, "have passed into that stage which you describe. I have had one love in which my heart was absolutely engaged and I can never have another such; but I can love as you say, and if such a love is acceptable to you it is yours."

Howe winced. He was quite willing to give a dead love, but when it came to the point he found he preferred a live one in return.

"There is a difference," he said, "between our cases. In yours the object of your love is dead; in mine she may be living, though, I confess, as to this I am not informed. She married years ago, since when I have heard nothing of her."

"You mistake," replied the widow. "My late husband was not the love I refer to. In my girlhood I loved one whom I could not marry."

"Then," said Howe, "we are quits as to these two loves. Had we not better let them remain buried in the dead past and devote ourselves to a living present? I confess these old loves, when confronted with new ones, are musty and have a sepulchral odor. Dear Mrs. Harding—"

"Call me Marguerite," she whispered, letting her head fall on his breast.

"Marguerite," he asked, starting.

"Yes, Marguerite."

"Marguerite Searle?"

"I was Marguerite Searle."

"And I am?"

"Anthony Olcott."

"You knew me?"

"From the first. A woman's love is not a man's, to forget even the slightest trait, a tone of voice, a step, a look of the eye. She treasures these in her heart, and when they come to her again after years of absence, though disguised, they have for her the same charm as of old."

"Marguerite, forgive me for not true, you reminded me of yourself, but I confess—"

"There is nothing to forgive you for unless it is for being a man. Men can not retain what is so enduring in woman."

"But it was you, not I, who—"

"Yes; I loved my parents, though it cost me more than it cost you. In this you men have the advantage of us women. You are stronger and less emotional. But when it comes to true love we are far more fervent and enduring."

After all, Anthony Olcott Howe concluded that there is a romance in love that neither time nor argument can eradicate. ARNOLD ACKERMAN.

Bowser's Bald Head

He Discovers a New Way to Make Hair Grow and Gives It a Trial—Bares His Scalp to the Dew Until Disturbed by Wild Animals

(Copyright, 1903, by C. B. Lewis.)
MR. BOWSER had been reading and smoking for half an hour when he laid the paper down and remarked in what he thought was a careless way:

"I'm thinking some of trying a little experiment tonight."

"Don't do it," promptly replied Mrs. Bowser. "The water pipes, electric bells, gas meter and gas fixtures are all right, and I hope you won't disturb things."

"No one thought of disturbing things. When I disturb things it's to better them. My handy way of fixing things saved us $500 last year."

"But there's nothing to fix now."

"Well, that's all right. I was thinking of the Persian who was in the office this afternoon. He happened to notice my bald head and suggested a remedy."

"And of course you bought it and have been doing for again. He probably heard what an easy mark you are before he left home."

"Woman, stop right where you are," said Mr. Bowser as he pointed a finger at her across the table. "In the first place, I have never been 'done for,' as you call it. In the second, the Persian had nothing for sale. As I told you, he simply made a suggestion."

"Did he suggest sandpaper to scratch the roots into life?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"You either drop that sarcastic tone or we don't talk any more. By thunder, but it seems to me that you grow meaner as you grow older. If you had some husbands to deal with you'd find out what was what pretty quick. What inazes it that blamed old cat looking at me in that way for? If I had a crow-bar I'd—"

The cat uttered a mew and disappeared, and Mrs. Bowser begged pardon and expressed her sorrow. Five minutes later Mr. Bowser had choked back his emotions and was saying:

"It's no crime to be baldheaded, but if I can grow new hair I ought to do it. This Persian remedy is a very simple thing. In Persia a baldheaded man sits out at night and lets the dew fall on his bald pate. It acts as a fertilizer, and after a few nights the hair begins to grow."

"Are you sure he wasn't joking?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"How joking? What was there to joke about? I'd like to see a stranger, and a Persian at that, joke about my bald head! There was no joking about it. He simply noticed my bald head and suggested a hair restorative."

"And you propose to sit out in the back yard tonight and let the dew fall upon your head?"

"Yes, I thought I'd try it. I don't see any harm in trying it. Do you?"

"Not a bit, except that you'll blame me and talk about a divorce, as you always do."

"What will there be to blame you about?" asked Mr. Bowser as he felt that he had got over the worst of it.

"Ten have nothing to do with the dews of heaven or my baldness. It's nonsense to talk that way. There'll be nothing to blame anybody about. If I have talked about a divorce now and then it has all been in fun. When you get ready to go to bed I'll slip out for an hour or two to give the restorative a chance to get in its work."

An hour later he took a seat in the back yard with his back to the fence.

THEY DROPPED ON THE BOWSER CAT AND ON MR. BOWSER HIMSELF.

CALLER HOME

Death of Mrs. Sarah Tygard, One of the Pioneer Women of the County.

Mrs. Sarah Lantz Tygard widow of the late E. B. Tygard, who was one of Licking County's most prominent citizens, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Amos Atwood, in Hebron, at 10:45 o'clock on Monday, Sept. 7, 1903. The funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. Atwood on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, and the interment will be made in Fairmount cemetery. Mrs. Tygard was one of the pioneer citizens of Licking county and had reached the advanced age of 91 years, 1 month and 24 days. She had enjoyed remarkably good health and vigor of mind until about a week or ten days ago, when she accidentally fell and fractured her hip. The shock was too great for a woman of her age, and death ensued. Mrs. Tygard was a native of Pennsylvania, and was married early in life to the late E. B. Tygard. Seven children were the fruit of this union, two of whom with the father, have gone to the spirit land. There are four sons and one daughter living, all grown to maturity, viz Mrs. Amos Atwood and Percy Tygard of Hebron; William and Cephus Tygard of Missouri; and John Tygard of Texas. The living children are all here with the exception of William, who is detained at home on account of severe illness.

Mrs. Tygard was a woman of strong character and great natural vigor of mind. She was an excellent Christian woman, and fulfilled the various relations of wife, mother and friend perfectly. Beloved in life she will be deeply mourned in death.

The heaviest train load ever hauled by one locomotive was one of 84 loaded cars, weighing in the aggregate 4787 tons which was hauled a distance of 13 miles at the rate of 13 miles an hour.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Robison Stock company, in many respects the strongest repertoire company that has ever appeared in Newark, opened a week's engagement at the Auditorium, Monday night an immense audience greeting the initial performance. The company is strong and all necessity for "doubles" which are unsatisfactory to players and audience alike is obviated, each member being enabled to give his or her entire attention to the portrayal of the character assigned on the program.

The company supported Miss Margaret Neville, a talented and fascinating actress in "Salome." The star's work throughout the evening, was up to a high standard of excellence in character delineation as well as artistic merit. She was at all times sufficient to the demands made upon her, and they were frequent, but her ability constantly showed itself in every speech she uttered and especially in several dramatic climaxes.

Miss Neville will undoubtedly prove a great favorite before the week is over. Thaddeus Gray took the lead Monday night at Col. Gilbert Edicott, and in this character he scored an artistic triumph. He has a magnificent physique and stage presence, a powerful, well modulated voice and is in every way fitted for the heroic in any dramatic production.

The comedy was well taken care of by Ernest Robison, as Dr. Cassidy, the jovial and pleasing Irish physician, who has more time on his hands than patients.

Eugene McGilton did most creditable work in Captain Dick Monroe, and the magnificent moral courage of the pardoned Federal officer is brought out by Mr. McGilton in a masterful manner.

Pearl Sizer as Beth Edicott, a sister of the Colonel, gives to the part a breezy vivaciousness that made a
